Over 10,000 people attended the annual threshing reunion at Dalton, an aerial scene of which is portrayed in a Review photo at the top. These visitors watched the team giants as they threshed the grain, pulled huge gang plows and powered saw rigs. A parade of the team engines was run Sunday afternoon.

A good street parade was run Saturday forenoon, and a portion of the kiddies parade is also shown in the second picture.

More pictures and a write-up appear on page 10 of the third section of this issue. Other pictures on other pages.
